Sequels are as much a part of horror as any other genre, so when Jim Vejvoda of IGN sat down 🦊 with Jennifer Kent, the question of a "Babadook" sequel inevitably came up. Specifically, Vejvoda asked Kent if she was afraid 🦊 that the stand-alone gem would become diminished by a "sequel factory," and if she'd have control over an outside source 🦊 making another movie. Fortunately, Kent confirmed that she and the producers own the rights to any sequels, so they'd have 🦊 the ultimate say. On that note, she took the opportunity to shut down any speculation   we shouldn't expect "The 🦊 Babadook 2." As she explained, "The reason for that is I will never allow any sequel to be made because 🦊 it's not that kind of film."

It seems like Kent always knew "The Babadook" wouldn't have a sequel, and for good 🦊 reason. She went on to say, "It's just not what the film's about. It would destroy the integrity of everything 🦊 we worked so hard to protect." That makes sense, as the film's focus is specifically on the trauma of Emilia 🦊 and Samuel, a story that's now been told. A sequel would dull the underlining meaning of the movie.

Sometimes, a movie 🦊 with a purpose like "The Babadook" is fine standing on its own.
