The battery delivers a 90% conversion efficiency rating according to specs on the manufacturer's website. Most batteries go from the high 70s to mid 80s. You want to see a higher number as this is how much power gets delivered with the rest being lost in conversion.

The Poki can charge and recharge at 2.1amps. This means you're not stuck for 20+ hours charging a 10,000mAh battery at 500mA. At 2.1 amp you should be able to charge this in under five hours and with 90% conversion efficiency you should have around 9000mAh of actual juice to spare. That should be enough for at least three complete charges from dead to full for any smartphone on the market today.

As a portable rechargeable battery it fails a couple of my perfect battery tests these are it doesn't do something else neat (like include a flashlight,) doesn't have fold-out prongs to charge directly from a wall, and doesn't have built-in cables. It also blinks when you're charging it, however you can throw it in the carrying case and avoid nighttime light pollution. That said though it is the perfect size for throwing in my pocket and going somewhere with.

The Poki also includes a touch-sensitive power display. While it's neat it doesn't always register my touch, but it does the job. It sort of reminds me of KITT from Knight Rider, or a Cylon, but not quite so cool.
