to another player or the game community at large. Temporary suspensions can range from a few days to a year or more, depending on the severity of the offense.

Temporary suspensions are often used for first-time offenders or for less severe offenses. Permanent suspensions are reserved for repeat offenders or for severe offenses.

Permanent suspensions are typically issued for offenses such as harassment, cheating, or using illegal software. In some cases, permanent suspensions may be issued for offenses that are considered to be a serious threat to the community.

It is important to note that suspensions are a tool used to maintain the integrity and safety of the game community. All players should be held accountable for their actions.

But chances are, if you're getting a MacBook Air instead of a MacBook Pro, you probably won't be doing too many heavy duty stuff. And the M1 chip model is still very much a capable machine for at least a 5-6 years, if I'm to be honest. Of course, a gain, depending on what you plan to use it for.

Long term support Apple generally supports its computers for around seven years from the date Apple last sells them. By my math, that means the M1 series machines should be supported until sometime around 2028 or 2029.

That's a good long run for a computer.
